

Maison de L'Amérique Latine, France

The Maison de l'Amérique latine was founded in 1946, in the wake of the Resistance, at the instigation of General de Gaulle and on the initiative of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. It was born out of the need for Latin Americans and French people to meet and get to know each other better.

The Maison de l'Amérique Latine is a privileged place for the reception, meetings and exhibitions of the Latin American cultural and diplomatic community in Paris. The Maison de l'Amérique Latine has conference rooms, an auditorium and lounges opening onto a large park. It is equipped with the necessary infrastructure for the organization of quality events and receptions.
